

The Legend of Indecisiveness

2D Adventure RPG

Dylan Anzaldo | Gisela Jimenez | Mariana Lara | Madyson Steiner

CMPS 3350 - Software Engineering

Table Of Contents

Overview

Technical Requirements

Product Features

Overall Goals

Stretch Goals

Division of Labor

- Overview
 - Legend of Zelda type 2D adventure RPG.
 - Story?
- Technical Requirements
 - Programming in C++
 - Graphics with OpenGL
 - Inputs
 - Keyboard
 - WASD to move
 - Space to interact
- Product Features
 - Art
 - Top down 2D sprites
 - Static background
 - System
 - Main Menu
 - Start New Game
 - Load Game

- Settings
 - NPC's
 - Friendly gives user items
 - Healer can give user HP
 - Enemies damage user
 - Resources
 - Combat
 - Sword used to fight enemies
 - Obstacles
 - Key used to open locked doors
 - Shops
 - Money is gained through defeating enemies & found in chests
- Overall Goals
 - Status bars to display users health and experience points
 - Combat determined by weapon damage and enemy health
 - User dies when health bar reaches zero is sent back to a healer
 - Linear progression
 - Character health increases each level up
- Stretch Goals
 - Combat efficiency determined by the weapon damage divided by an armor rating
 - Special item that prevents death when in users inventory
 - Open world concept with multiple ways of proceeding
 - Characters strength is increased each level up to multiply weapons damage
 - Multiple different characters to choose from when starting a new game with different playstyles
- Division of Labor
 - Each person assigned a section of the map
 - Each person can design this area to their preferred style
 - If anyone get stuck we can always collaborate to fix the issue

